

Algorithm side

The address map in our project has a graph structure in which each node has a name (the real coordinates of this address), the edges between these points have a weight equal to the real distance between the addresses.

The distance between addresses is taken in meters

The graph in our project is complete and looks like this

